Carver-Price School News

Hello Readers!

Basketball season is again here and its the talk of the student body, as the first game is being played in Bedford today. On Thursday, December 6, at 7:30 P. M., the first home game will be played against R. R. Moton, of Farmville. The "Jayvees" from each school will play the preliminaries. Be sure to come out and enjoy the evening with us and support the team. Members of the Varsity who were introduced by Coach Thomas at a special assembly on Monday were: William Brice, James Gafford, Sammie Scruggs, Raymond Lawing, Herbert Williams, Isaac Trent, John Minnifield, Thomas Haskins, and Alphonso Dillard. Junior Varsity members were: Norman Turner, Russell Turner, Kent Paige, Eugene Moorman, Courtney Franklin, Sammie Braxton, and Robert Perkins.

Friday evening, December 7, at 7:30 P. M., "Family Night" is being observed for the benefit of the parents. Observations will be made by parents of work being conducted in each classroom. Parents will have an opportunity to consult teachers concerning their child's progress. A special program from each department will be held in the Auditorium at the end of the tour of classrooms. Teachers and students will speak and present demonstrations of work being done. Refreshments will be served in the cafeteria at the conclusion of the program. All parents are urged to be in attendance at this special program planned for you.

On Friday evening, December 14, at 8:00 P. M., the Senior Class will present their annual plays. The three one-act plays are: "Life of the Party," a comedy concerning teen-agers and their problems. Cast for this play is William Brice, Hazel Gafford, Harolyn Walker, Mary Goode, Sidney Watts, Mozelle Chambers, Annie Megginson, Helen Flowers, Sammie Scruggs, James Gafford, James Graham, and Bobby Booker. The second play, "Death of the Hired Man" is based on Robert Frost's poem of the same title. Cast of characters is: Laura Tinsman, Bernice Dillard, James Gafford, and Bobby Booker. The third play, "Foxy Grandma," is a comedy and is concerned with the problems in the Maxwell household when Grandma visits and robbers come. Much time has been spent in preparing the plays for your enjoyment. Admission is 25c for students and 40c for adults. Mark this date on your calendar. The seniors will be expecting you. Mrs. H. P. James is directeor.

Tuesday, December 11, a six senior girls took the Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow Knowledge and Aptitude Test. These students were: Celestine Chambers, Mary Goode, Laura Fleshman, Annie Megginson, Clara Ferguson, Edna Scott, Oretha Patterson, and Mozelle Chambers. The Betty Crocker Homemaker at Carver-Price will receive a pin designating her as winner in her school. Scholarships and prizes are as much as $5000 with an all expense paid trip to New York City as the Homemaker of Tomorrow. We are proud to be participants in this nationwide test. Mrs. V. P. Elliott is instructor.

Until next week, our thought: "The principles we live by, in business and in social life, are the most important part of happiness. We need to be careful, upon achieving happiness, not to lose the virtues which have produced it."

Campaign costs may exceed the $14 million of 1952.

Personal income gate continues to gain.

Subscription rate: $2.00 a year; payable in advance.

COMMENT ON SPORTS

By Pete Fritchie

Washington.- If you are one of the millions of sportsmen who hunt game birds in the United States, at about this time of year, the following lines will be of interest to you.

The quail we speak of is hunted all the way from Western states to eastern states and from New England to Florida. It is not found on the West Coast, where another variety is hunted, mostly in mountain country, but the similarity is considerable in some respects.

About this time of year hunters are perfecting their dogs, and grumbling because it is too dry, or because the dogs are still too eager, or because they won't stay close, or retrieve birds. But all in all, this year is better than the dry 1954, when quail became extremely scarce.

Yet the word from official Washington statisticians is that the supply of quail is being threatened by three things in most of the Bob-white states. First, land is being turned from farmland into pasture. Second, big machinery-cultivation methods are wiping out hedgerows and brush lines along fields and destroying cover.

Insecticides might be causing some damage, and the growing amount of acreage planted in trees is definitely reducing bird country further. Bobwhites thrive in country where small farms predominate, where pea and corn fields dot the countryside, and where water and cover are near.

The general picture is one which should make the hunter think. The worst crime a hunter can commit, in these circumstances is to kill a covey down to the last bird. This covey does not reappear the following spring, which it will do, otherwise if only six or eight birds are left in it—possibly four.

Since quail are prolific, and since 80 per cent of the birds alive in the fall are eliminated because of various causes by spring it is extremely important that coveys not be wiped out. One pair of birds left can turn into a fifteen or twenty-bird covey the following summer. Six or eight birds left can become two or three coveys.

Quail pair off each spring and each pair attempts to raise a covey. The bird has many natural enemies: fox, snakes, hawks, and many other animal predators to take their annual toll.

In some areas restocking has been successful. More often, it has not. To do a successful restocking job, one must be sure to put out young bird, to put them where they have feed, and protect them for the first week. Quail feeders are a help in this regard. The birds should be completely wild in a week or two after they are put out.

Full coveys can be put out in late summer or fall, and pairs can be put out in the spring. The full covey restocking is apparently more successful. A little restocking, and good hunting methods, plus the planting of a few pea patches here and there will prolong quail hunting much longer than might otherwise be the case.

RETRIEVER RETRIEVED

Eden, Wis.- Clarence R. Ochs, of Fond du Lac, shot a squirrel which became wedged in branches as it fell. Ochs climbed the tree and became lodged in the limbs himself, 40 feet above the ground. A ladder company of the fire department, summoned by Ochs' more cautious companion, retrieved the retriever from the tree.

NEWS FOR VETERANS

High blood pressure, man's greatest killer, will be investigated through large-scale drug research just beginning, Veterans Administration announced.

Dr. Edward D. Freis, of the VA Mount Alto Hospital, in Washington, D. C., is coordinator of the program.

He said the study is aimed at determining how well newer drugs control high blood pressure, and whether they can prevent hardening of the arteries, heart attacks, strokes and other complications of the disease.

Six VA hospitals will carry out the research, he said. In addition to Mount Alto, they are at Richmond, Va.; Iowa City, Iowa; San Jan, Puerto Rico, and Chicago West Side, with a sixth to be chosen.

Dr. Freis said the drugs under test are reserpine, which is a tranquilizer; hydralazine, a powerful dilator of blood vessels, and pentolinium tartrate, chlorisondamine chloride, and mecamylamine hydrochloride. The latter three are synthetic compounds that block transmission of nerve impulses to the blood vessels.

When patients with high blood pressure are admitted to the six participating hospitals, evaluations of their conditions, including laboratory and x-ray procedures, will be made, Dr. Freis said.

Appomattox is a growing town.
